

Ever

People with bird-blood know the ice-cold air;
They also know the clouds and rainbows there.
These are the kingdoms from which children lean
And blow the milkweeds over waves of green.